

The Four Windows of Manifestation

From the teachings of Dr. Michael Bernard Beckwith

[Written, compiled, and edited By Reverend Cheryl J. Ward, J.D. Updated August 2011]

Introduction: Every human experience can be viewed through one of these Four Windows of Manifestation. We live in a manifest world in this time/space dimension. For hundreds of years philosophers, writers, sages, and spiritually enlightened individuals have offered explanations of how the manifest world comes to be our physical reality. Universal laws have been identified according to an observed description of how these invisible laws seem to work. Down through the ages, these universal spiritual laws have been identified as responsible for bringing about a physical result. Some have invoked the laws to bring about a healing of health and wholeness; others have invoked the laws to manifest a desired financial result. In recent years the field of quantum physics has helped to provide a greater understanding of our local versus non-local reality, and our participation in “observer-created reality.” Yet, the difficulty lies in understanding why certain things manifest and what God, or the Divine, has to do with manifestation.

Undoubtedly, one could say there are more than four windows of manifestation. However these four, as defined by Dr. Michael Bernard Beckwith, in my view provide a wider context for understanding the laws of manifestation than the Newtonian view of cause and effect. We live as spiritual beings having a human experience in the manifest (form) world of time and space. What gets manifested follows the laws of manifestation as well as the Divine Impulse indwelling in each of us. This Divine Impulse finds It’s expression in our awareness (consciousness) through our individual souls. The soul’s evolution is very much a part of the manifest world. Yet, though we see, we must not judge by appearances! To make sense of this manifest world it is extremely helpful to view life through Dr. Beckwith’s windows of manifestation!

Reflective Collective Consciousness

First Window – The Job Factor ---- Beliefs, A Subset of Your Perception

- Beliefs: whether they are conscious or unconscious, your beliefs will determine your experience; they form your perception of reality. You focus on events around you -- your relationships, your health and your finances -- through your dominant 'belief-sets' that form your perception of the manifest world.
- What you believe is what you experience. Awareness of your beliefs about relationships, love, finances, health, spiritual growth, livelihood, ego, is critical to making changes to your human experiences.
- Examining your beliefs is critical to understanding your life, particularly if you live in fear, worry, angst, anxiety about the future most of the time. It is also important to know if you are believing more in unforgiveness than forgiveness towards those who you feel have done you wrong, abandoned you, betrayed you or deceived you.
- Second Window – Lessons for Your Soul's evolution
- Lesson: The higher self, or your Over-Soul, will create things on an inner level for your unfoldment. That which is created serves to birth transformational qualities within you. Your soul provides lessons for you. Something is seeking to emerge through you as part of your soul's unfoldment.
- You Are Your Own School. The Divine within your soul creates for Its own evolvment certain lessons for unfoldment. On this level, your soul is in tune with higher consciousness and develops circumstances and situations that will bring forth the lesson.

“The Job Factor is a description of how individuals manifest that which they consciously or unconsciously most fear, resist, dread, worry about and bring into manifestation by the constant placement of their attention and observation. . . . Nothing comes into our experience uninvited. If we don't want something to happen, it has just as powerful an impact as wanting it, because we have placed our attention on it.”

---Michael Bernard Beckwith

“for givenness than forgiveness, towards the good and down of forgiveness, goes entrance to lessons which draw to us people and experiences through which we grow, develop and unfold. Even though we cannot see precisely why things happen, we begin to catch that we have a magnetic field into which we draw that which is in service to our expansion of consciousness.”

Michael Bernard Beckwith

- Are you learning the lessons of your soul provided by your Over-Soul? Or, are you just seeking pleasure? If you are ignoring or failing to see why things are happening in your life, you are missing a significant lesson that your soul has drawn to you. This is another reason why your life has deeper meaning that is being crafted just for us.
- The soul unfolds itself by allowing the Presence of God to speak to it, that it may reach this state of consciousness (awareness) and unity with the Infinite.

“When contemplating lessons, consider this: there is a deeper dimension to your spirit which can create challenging experiences designed to propel you into manifesting your highest potential, to expressing the gifts, talents, and skills that you have come on the planet to deliver.”
 --Michael Bernard Beckwith

Third Window – A Blessing in the Lives of Others

- The soul, in its identification and unification with the Divine - the all-encompassing Eternal Presence - chooses to serve this Divine Presence in the lives of others. These souls have come here to deliver and be a blessing for another.
- Often seekers ask: Why do bad things happen to good people? Why do children who are innocent, having committed no sin, suffer disease or abuse? This question begs for a deeper understanding of Life, of who we are, of whose we are, and of our co-creative unity with the Divine Presence and all other souls. Seeing nothing but separation from God and from others, makes this question perfectly logical. But there is a larger knowing, a deeper understanding at work here.
- Blessing: This window offers the opportunity to view “negative” experiences as more deeply profound than we can imagine on the surface. These so-called negative or horrific experiences carry within them a blessing for others. A blessing is the bestowing of good of any kind; the recognition of the Hand of the Divine in any situation. Usually the soul who dedicates his/her life to being a blessing in the life of others is living from a very high state of consciousness. This view of blessing comes from an inner state of consciousness that recognizes Life as Eternal - never ending - and is unified, not only with the all-encompassing Presence of God, but with all of Life

“You and others you know have had experiences you consider as being uninvited, meaning you did not seek them out. However, quite possibly they occurred to help another individual evolve.”
 ---Michael Bernard Beckwith

and every other soul-being!

- The blessings help to birth new qualities and uncover hidden strengths that allow one to transcend circumstances. The Grace of God brings you through any struggle or challenge. You are brought into a profound space of deep love and connection-- compassion is born anew in you!
- Are you aware of those individuals in your life who have come to earth to be a beneficial, (sacrificial), presence in the lives of others? For some, their appearance may look like mental disability, physical illness, betrayal, and criminal conduct (a-ha, "the Judas kiss"). Judging this type of conduct as the world would judge, often results in anger directed at God ("How could God let this happen?"), condemnation, withholding of compassion, unforgiveness and so forth, against others. We may be unkind to someone who we hold in this state of judgment. This point of view is ignorant of our oneness with all of life and the Divine Plan back of everything.
- Some soul-beings have chosen to make their lives sacred (sacrificial) for the evolution of humankind. If we look at pain from the perspective of time, it looks like suffering. If we look at pain from the perspective of Eternity, we do not see it; instead, we see all unfolding according to a Divine Plan; we see that all is well.
- Some children and babies come to this life for a short time for the purpose of being a blessing in the lives of others. This was so poignantly pointed out in The Wheel of Eternity by Helen Greaves. The author, who was clairvoyant, tells the story of a very wealthy woman who had a boy born with Down's Syndrome. The boy died at 11 years of age from drowning. The mother was very hardened of character, cold and lacking in warmth and compassion. On the other side, the boy was able to communicate with Helen Greaves, in which she writes about in her second book, The Wheel of Eternity. He was an advanced soul who came to be a blessing in his mother's life, opening her heart up to kindness and compassion which happened after his death. This is a fascinating true story, well worth reading for yourself. Read the first book Testimony of Light by Helene Greaves to understand the second book.

The Fourth Window – Reflection of Collective Consciousness

- As long as there are negative beliefs around the planet, accepted by the collective race consciousness, these opinions, judgments and beliefs may be reflected in your life. Are you believing as the world believes? Are you under the hypnotic spell of the collective beliefs of the human race? You can choose to believe in a different world. What will you choose now?
- You get to think independent of prevailing beliefs and think from an awareness of the Divine Presence, your Connection to God, and your true essential nature.
- Walking in both worlds. You want to always keep one foot in Eternity and the other foot in time. With Eternity, we transcend the pain and suffering while not denying that it is happening on one level. And with the other foot walking in the time dimension, we open our hearts to forgiveness and compassion for the suffering and pain going on in the world. By doing this you are not succumbing to the world of human experience, you are transcending it. More importantly, you are joining the field of other soul-beings who are lifting the evolutionary vibration of the planet.

“Through the fourth window we view the collective mindsets of humankind. There are different ‘schools of consciousness’ in which we enroll ourselves. Some individuals are part of the collective mind that believes fear, worry, doubt, scarcity, lack, suffering, death, creationism, and a nature of sinfulness from which one needs to be saved are life’s realities. Then there are those who are part of the collective mind who believe that bliss, enlightenment, primordial emptiness, immortality, wholeness, and oneness are the realities of existence.”

--Michael Bernard Beckwith

Appearances Can Be Misleading

Through our five senses we perceive and experience the manifest world. And through our innate intelligence and cognitive reasoning ability, we interpret, and give meaning, to the events, behavior of people and the situations that occur in our lives. Daily activities capture our attention and before we know it, we are off and running with a meaning and interpretation of just about every occurrence that captures our attention. We are cautioned by the Master teacher Jesus to not judge by appearances, but to judge righteously. These four windows offer a clear path to righteous judgment.

Which Window? You no longer judge by appearances because you realize you do not know what you are looking at — beliefs made manifest, a Lesson, a Blessing, or a Reflection of Collective Consciousness. Introspection and contemplation through these four windows free us from the occasional and sometimes constant tyranny of the manifest human experience. Begin today to reflect upon your life. When the view that you are seeing is incomprehensible or difficult to understand, try focusing your awareness through one of these windows and see what insight and intuitive recognition comes forth.

“Manifestation is, in essence, creation, and its laws are basically laws of creativity. To be a true manifestor, man must redefine himself from being a receiver into being a divine creator. God (hence the divinity within man) creates not by manipulation and domination but through being. All creation is an aspect, a reflection of what God is. God creates or manifests by being Himself. . . . Each consciousness will experience exactly what it is able to be on the level of its functioning awareness.”
